TENTH MONTH ADVISES AND QUERIES : PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS

In daily relationships with others, both inside and outside the home, our lives as Friends speak immediately and lastingly. In these relationships, our faith may also be severely tested. We are called to respond to that of God in everyone: we are all children of God. Friends celebrate any union that is dedicated to mutual love and respect, regardless of the unique make-up of the family. We strive to create homes where the Spirit of the Divine resides at the center and where the individual genius of each member is respected and nurtured.

Human sexuality is a divine gift, forming part of the complex union of body, mind and spirit that is our humanity. In a loving adult relationship in a context of mutual responsibility, sexuality brings delight, fulfillment and celebration.

The presence of children carries a special blessing as well as responsibility. Children bring unique spiritual gifts — wonder, resiliency, playfulness and more. Recognize and honor the Divine Light within children and treat them with the dignity and respect that is due to all people. Listen to and learn from children; share with them those values and practices that are central to our own lives. Special care must be given to resolving problems between adults and children in a manner that gives equal weight to the feelings and needs of both children and adults. Tender parenting is one of the critically important peace vocations in our society. Make every effort to offer all parents the personal and institutional support that this challenging work requires.

Take a strong stand against any form of abuse, whether that abuse is minor or severe, and whether it is emotional, physical or sexual in nature. The terrible impact of abuse on the most vulnerable members of our families creates lifelong suffering for its victims and is a major source of violence in our society. Perpetrators are themselves usually victims of similar violence and should be approached with compassion as well as firmness.

- Do I make my home a place of friendliness, joy, and peace, where residents and visitors feel God's presence?
 - Are my sexual practices consistent with my spiritual beliefs and free of manipulation and exploitation?
 - What barriers keep me from responding openly and lovingly to each person?
 - Do we open our thoughts, beliefs, and deep understandings to our children and others who share our lives and our hospitality?
 - Do we provide our children and young adults with a framework for active, ongoing participation in the Meeting?

Treasurer's Report – FY 2021-2022 10-7-2022

summary = Good financially.

An interesting year, transitioning from only paying rent on the storage container to our return to use of our Meeting House again. The contributions received ($14,479) slightly exceeded our budget for the year. And our outbound donations have been paid in full. THANK YOU all for your contributions.

Our income also exceeded our spending ($12,511). Altogether we ended the fiscal year with more in the bank than we had on October first of last year. This yields your Treasurer's smile of gratitude.

The proposed budget for fiscal year 2022-2023 reflects our financial rebound from Covid-19 related problems. The Stewardship Committee meets each month and is watching the balance between our spending & income.

All contributions to Grass Valley Friends Meeting -- whether money, service, or prayer – are deeply appreciated.

Money contributions to GVFM can be in-person, mailed to my address below, or online by using the “give” button at “gvfriends.org”.

Thank you, Fosten

SPIRITUAL LIFE PROGRAM, November 27, 2022: Braiding Sweetgrass: Indigenous Wisdom, Scientific Knowledge, and the Teaching of Plants Dean Olson, Karen Olson and Reed Hamilton

Written by Robin Wall Kimmerer, both an Indigenous person and a Ph.D. botanist and distinguished professor at the State University of New York, the question is raised, “How do we heal our broken relationship with the land?” The title of her book gives us her answer: our present culture has brought us far and given us so much but also has cut us off from nature and has created the dire situation we find our planet in today.

She contends that this breach needs to be healed and can be by being open to Indigenous wisdom which sees us all in relationship with Mother Earth. She continues that we also need to be open and in relationship with our brothers and sisters, the plants and trees and all other living creatures of which we are the youngest siblings. This literally is being introduced to another worldview, with which we bring our modern worldview into dialogue.

Using the image of braiding she intends us to see it is not an either/or but a weaving together of what each worldview brings to our awareness of what is now needed from us. This is a unique way of understanding what is happening and how the modern worldview has led us to what we call global warming or climate change with the attendant wildfires, extinctions, catastrophic flooding, crop failures, and more. Through this braiding we may see with new eyes and hear with open ears what is being asked of us by Mother Earth and all her children.

Come join us and experience two aspects from her book:

- The Indigenous Creation Story, “Skywoman Falling”.
- The Anishinaabe Native people's response to Mother Earth and the Creator, called “the Thanksgiving Address: Greetings to the Natural World”.

We will also walk a bit on the Woolman land and explore directly how the Native Nisenan might have experienced the relation of food and place.

The session will be suited to all physical abilities and will be adapted to the weather

Perspectives on Erasure -Visibility Through Art 2022 Exhibition opens Oct. 8

California Heritage: Indigenous Research Project is excited to present the 6th Annual Visibility Through Art Exhibition

Visibility Through Art is a community art initiative produced annually as part of CHIRP’s Arts and Culture Program. Visibility Through Art is an intentional and informed collaboration between local artists and members of the Nevada City Rancheria Nisenan Tribe. Each project year explores a theme or subject of importance to the Tribe, culminating in an annual exhibit. This year, artists and Tribal Members were asked to center around the theme of Erasure. We are invited to consider: the impact of settler colonialism through the generations, of the gold rush, the boarding schools, of the laws and systems that erased and continue to eradicate Nisenan heritage and identity. Art opens the way for meaningful conversations around topics that are not always easy to have and sometimes can reveal solutions that may otherwise remain unseen.

Uba Seo: Nisenan Arts & Culture is a new gallery space in downtown Nevada City. The gallery project falls under CHIRP's Art and Culture Program and is yet another way to bring visibility to the Nevada City Rancheria Nisenan Tribe while fulfilling CHIRP's mission: to preserve, protect, and perpetuate Nisenan Culture. 'Uba Seo is another step toward the restoration of the Tribe's Federal Recognition. Since opening its doors in the Spring of 2021, 'Uba Seo has created rich opportunities for visibility, advocacy, healing, and community education. The 'Uba Seo Gallery creates an unprecedented social space curated through Nisenan perspectives and voices.

Why an art exhibit? - This art event was created to engage our community in conversation about this land and the Nisenan People. It also serves to raise the Tribe's visibility. Shelly Covert, a Nisenan Tribal member who sits on the Nevada City Rancheria Tribal Council, is the Spokesperson for her Tribe, and the Executive Director of CHIRP stated, "The goal is to create conscientious art pieces that inspire dialogue about Nisenan history and culture. We were looking for a way to tell our collective story and this seems to be working. Art is an incredible platform to engage in difficult dialogue. And collaborating with local artists has not only been a pleasure, but it is helping us achieve our goals. Our deepest hope is to bring about awareness of local historic and current issues through the medium of art." The one-of-a-kind pieces created annually during this project have become the main body of CHIRP's expanding art collection.

Exhibit Review by Sharon Davisson

Marilyn Guida and I spent time on Indigenous People's Day at the Nisenan Uba Seo art show "Perspectives on Erasure". The deeply moving and meaningful paintings, sculpture and films are based on memories and experiences of our local Nisenan.

The focus of the art is the impact of settler colonialism through the generations. Effects of the gold rush, boarding schools, laws and systems that continue to eradicate Nisenan heritage and identity.

For a very moving and educational experience, I encourage a visit to Uba Seo. It is located at 225 Broad Street, Nevada City. Thurs. 1.00-6.00, Fri. 12.00-5.00, Sat. 12.00-5.00.

Daring to Hope

By Coleen Hedglin

Dear Friends of Woolman,

During these past few months, I have met many people connected to Woolman in one way or another. There have been varying responses from people when they learn that I work at Woolman. For the most part, there has been a hesitant interest in what we're trying to do here, while others are even more cautious, almost afraid to hope once more that Woolman will thrive. More people than I'd like to say have responded with some version of, "Good luck with that!," as if to ask me, "Do you really dare to hope that this will work?"

Yes, I do.

Because, for every hesitant doubter, I have also received many encouraging responses: expressions of deep appreciation and connection with Woolman -- an experience, a relationship with the place, or even a lifetime saga infused with love and transformation. People who say, Thank you for caring for Woolman, for making it possible for others to experience its magic. These people have rich stories of how Woolman changed their lives or how they helped steward Woolman throughout its chapters. They share their encouragement and joy with me, and I've had many warm welcomes and hugs. I often call upon these memories of welcome and encouragement to fuel my days of hard work.

I also dare to hope because the land calls me to.

The sun is setting earlier each day, and we are enjoying crisp evenings here on campus, even as the days continue to provide a good dose of sunshine. Our resident deer and jackrabbit families explore the land, and the otter has returned to Mel's pond! While Spring is usually the season associated with hope and renewal, I find that Autumn is inspiring a strong sense of hope as we open new programs and anticipate the rainy season, which will support land restoration activities that can only happen when there's water falling from the sky. Autumn is also when schools reopen, and who doesn't feel hope with a new school year? We are now busy planning with schools to schedule field trips and outdoor education programs through Woolman Outdoor School. All of this brings me great hope.

Mostly, though, I hope because it is working! I look around me and I see highly capable people doing amazing work. Our programs are interesting and life-giving, and they are enriching the lives of youth, families, and adults. Artists gather and make art. Families gather to connect with nature and with each other. Students explore and learn from the trees and the stream and the farm.

Wherever you are on your journey with Woolman, I hope you'll take the time to read this newsletter, visit the campus, participate in our programs, and join me in daring to hope.

My warmest regards, Coleen coleenh@woolman.org

Pendle Hill Pamphlets Replenished

Living Fellowship Needs Fresh Forms

By Daphne Clement

Pendle Hill Pamphlet #471 (October 2021)

Synopsis

The Religious Society of Friends has real freedom from prescribed form in worship. More than many faith groups, the Society has the capacity to adapt to meet the needs of the time. But change can divide us, as can confusion between personal image and real essence. Daphne Clement examines two forms of innovative Quaker fellowship: a recent experiment with daily Zoom worship and the New Lights movement in New Bedford in the nineteenth century. The story of the New Lights illustrates the tension between the authority of tradition and the freedom of continuing revelation. How can we meet each other – in spite of various differences: cultural, personal, political – soul to soul? The pamphlet responds: We can hold each other in the Light. It is the Light that is the source of living fellowship that has held our Society together these hundreds of years. It is real. It is our organizing force. Three sets of queries for discussion are included in the body of the text.

To be afraid is to behave as if truth were not true. Bayard Rustin

The Atheist's Guide to Quaker Process: Spirit-Led Decisions for the Secular

By Selden W. Smith

Pendle Hill Pamphlet #472 (December 2021)

Synopsis

Can the nontheist participate fully in the religiously rooted Quaker “sense of the meeting” process? This essay offers a practical guide for those engaged with Quaker-led institutions who are not Quaker themselves, and who may not hold any religious beliefs at all. Whether you are an atheist, agnostic, skeptic, or simply never gave it much thought, this essay describes how, by relying on a handful of noble yet entirely human qualities, the benefits of this time-tested decision-making model can be available to nonbelievers without hypocrisy or pretense. A brief list of recommended readings is included.

Be Patterns: Reflections on Words of George Fox

By John Andrew Gallery

Pendle Hill Pamphlet #473 (February 2022)

Synopsis

Combining ideas from contemplation of the well-known passage from George Fox’s “Letter from Launceston Gaol” with ideas from Rex Ambler and Edgar Cayce, John Andrew Gallery finds guidance for what it means to be a spiritual pattern and an approach for how to become one. Discussion questions included.

Walking with the Bible

By Carl Magruder, Adria Gulizia, and Colin Saxton
with an introduction by Peter Blood

Pendle Hill Pamphlet #474 (April 2022)

Synopsis

In 2020, Woolman Hill and Beacon Hill Friends House hosted a series of monthly Bible hours in which speakers talked about the role the Bible plays in their lives, reflected on a Bible passage, and shared ministry rising from it. They also brought queries to the participants for worship sharing. The ministry and queries shared by the first three speakers in the series make up this pamphlet, along with a guide to bringing this method of letting God speak to our hearts through the Bible to our meetings and churches. With an introduction by Peter Blood, whose leading inspired the series.

Hillbilly Quaker

By Jennifer Elam

Pendle Hill Pamphlet #475 (June 2022)

Synopsis

Jennifer Elam writes about her childhood and identity as a rural Appalachian. She discovered she was a “hillbilly” when she left the region and details the discrimination and misunderstandings she has encountered outside Appalachia. Highlighting the stereotypes and sensationalized reporting on the poverty that continues to plague the region, Jennifer calls on Friends to better live our testimony of equality with regard to Appalachia. Discussion questions are included.

Radical Transformation: Long Overdue for the Religious Society of Friends

By Vanessa Julye

Pendle Hill Pamphlet #476 (August 2022)

Synopsis

Vanessa Julye gave the 2021 Stephen G. Cary Memorial Lecture at Pendle Hill. The Religious Society of Friends stands in need of transformation. The systems of White supremacy, racism, colonization, and capitalism continue to erect walls that prevent people of color from joining and remaining in our Quaker community. Through the use of continuing revelation, we can co-create a transformed religious community that honors freedom, equity, integrity, and peace.
